Need Novelist Today Like Sinclair Lewis Observes Biographer Mark Schorer

BY RAYLYN PENNEY

The biographer of Sinclair Lewis has in his future plans the biography of another American author, Stephen Crane.

Visiting briefly this week in Carmel, where the tall, red-haired author of Arrowsmith himself resided on several occasions, was Mark Schorer of Berkeley, whose 800-page book, Sinclair Lewis: An American Life, was published last year by McGraw-Hill.

Mr. Schorer, chairman of the department of English, University of California at Berkeley, said that the Crane biography, for which he is under contract to Alfred A. Knopf, will have a major difference from the Lewis book in that: "Crane is a writer, who has always been very interesting to me. I have never cared particularly for Lewis's books."

For curiously, Schorer spent nearly ten years of his own life and traveled many thousands of miles over two continents to do the research and writing on the life of a person about whom, he makes plain in the book, he was less than enthusiastic both as a man and as a writer.

In the Schorer book Lewis emerges as a kind of perennial hobbledoy (though that word was used only once in another connection), who could be sentimental, cruel, extravagantly entertaining, but as often embarrassingly boring, and shallow and thoughtless in his relations with other people although he yearned for companionship.

The accuracy of this portrait of Lewis is verified by many who knew Lewis and who have since read the Schorer book.

"He was one of the worst writers in American literature," Schorer says in the book, "but without his writing one cannot imagine modern American literature." And in another place Schorer says, "... his 22 novels were all directed toward one discovery, the 'reality' of America."

This job, Schorer then concludes, has been taken over by social scientists who speak of "exurbanites" and "status-seekers," but with all their jargon have never been able (Continued on Page Four)

BUSINESS ASSOCIATION

The five candidates who seek election to two vacancies on the city council on April 10 will speak briefly tonight at the quarterly meeting of the Carmel Business Association at La Playa Hotel. A social hour starting at 6:30 o'clock will precede dinner at 7:30.

Other speakers at the meeting will be a former mayor, Herbert Heron, and Mayor Frank Putnam. They will contrast Carmel past and present.

City council candidates are Herbert B. Blanks, Warren Edwards, James Buffington Jr., Mrs. John Chitwood and incumbent Gunnar Norberg.

Norberg Opposes Giving Easement To County For Safer Entrance To Carmel At Carpenter Street

With City Councilman Gunnar Norberg dissenting, the Carmel Council last night voted to grant an easement over city lands for road construction at the Carpenter Street-Highway One intersection. The easement will absorb two portions of a .3-acre strip.

The construction is part of the joint county-state project re-channeling traffic at the intersection for greater safety. It is not a part of the State Highway Commission plans for a freeway interchange at the intersection, but will alleviate conditions there until the interchange is built, or become a substitute measure if the interchange is never built, it was explained.

The easement will in part follow an abandoned road in the narrow section and will cost the city a minimum number of trees.

Councilman Norberg voted no on the measure, he explained, because he is opposed to giving the county any easement which will mean "the loss of ANY trees."

In another item closely allied with the intersection project, the council voted to consult with J. M. Chaffey of the California Highway Engineers office on the wording of a directional sign to be placed at the Carpenter Street entrance to Carmel to dispel the present confusion of visitors who are not informed that there are two entrances to Carmel as they travel south along Highway One.

Councilmen last night indicated they favored a suggested sign saying, "Carmel North Entrance" at the site.

Another issue taken up in the council chambers last night brought a note of protest from Norberg when the city sold to Carmel Unified School District for a token payment of one dollar an extra resuscitator owned by the Fire Department, which has two other resuscitators now in use. The in-

Red Cross Returns Pass Quarter Mark

The sum of $7,500 has been received during the first week of the Carmel Red Cross drive for members and funds towards the total goal of $28,000, and represents, for the most part, returns from advance solicitations letters mailed prior to March 1 by the fund drive chairman, Carl Bosholm.

Residential solicitation has been hampered by the inclement weather. However, Mrs. Kenneth Roberts reports that many workers have been out in the rains and all areas will be covered.

Carmel business district, under the chairmanship of Glen Birchfield, is being covered by 18 Carmel businessmen who hope to complete their job within the first few weeks. They report that response so far has been good.

Pebble Beach solicitation is being conducted by mail, with returns going to Mrs. H. V. Alward, residential chairman for Pebble Beach.

No reports have come into the chapter from outlying areas, but Chairman Bosholm hopes to be able to make weekly reports during the rest of the month of March.

Carmel Trustees Favor Annexing Coast Schools

Last night, after discussion on the advantages and disadvantages of contiguous Captain Cooper and Palo Colorado school districts annexing to Carmel Unified School District, Dr. Grant Fletcher, chairman of the Carmel board of education, stated that annexation of the downcoast districts will be acceptable to Carmel, in spite of possible additional costs and problems arising from such a merger. However, he emphasized that any annexation action must be initiated by the two districts south of Carmel.

Miss Gladys Stone, Monterey County Superintendent of Schools, told Carmel, Palo Colorado and Captain Cooper trustees at the two-hour meeting that the prime factor to be considered was the education of the children in the coast schools. She thought that annexation to Carmel would enhance education, also provide greater selectivity and evaluation of teachers, in Palo Colorado and Captain Cooper schools.

Captain Cooper trustees, Don McQueen and Mrs. Katherine Short, indicated their district was anxious to join Carmel. Palo Colorado school board members, Frank Trotter, Mrs. Betty Bell and Mrs. Margaret Brazil, seemed in doubt about the move.

Both districts plan to present the annexation proposal Monday night at a meeting of the augmented Monterey County Committee on School District Organization. This committee will hold two more meetings on the matter. If they recommend the merger to Miss Stone, she will then initiate procedures for an annexation election in the two downcoast districts.

At present, because Monterey high school and elementary school districts are considering becoming a unified school district, the coast schools are faced with three alternatives, becoming part of the Monterey unified district, forming their own high school district in three years' time, or joining Carmel district.

The latter choice will be to their financial advantage, according to figures presented last night by Wayne Greenfield, assistant superintendent of Carmel schools. The operating costs in the three districts this year are: Carmel, $2.35; Captain Cooper, $2.68; Palo Colorado, $2.63.

Possible disadvantages to Carmel in the merger appear to lie mostly in Palo Colorado District where the present school site cannot be expanded as it does not meet state size requirements, also students are transported to school by their parents, not by school bus.

Dr. Fletcher suggested that if Palo Colorado obtains a future school site that meets state regulations, prior to annexation to Carmel, this would be an advantage to the students in the district. It would eliminate the necessity of Carmel transporting students to schools in this area if future enrollment in Palo Colorado district exceeds the capacity of the existing one-room school.

Future increase in enrollment in this district was seen as a possibility by Clayton Neill, Jr., Carmel trustee, who stated new homes are being built in the area.

Among other things, Carmel City Council last night voted to spend $467.48 for 10 new chairs for seating councilmen and city officials at the new council table next year.

In another action, councilmen voted to sell their old chairs and table to the Carmel Sanitary District for $150.

"Could you arrange to have the chairs here by the next meeting?" wistfully asked Councilman John Chitwood, who has said he will not run for re-election and whose last council session will be next meeting.

"If we don't, we could allow you to come back as a visitor and try the chairs out anyway," the mayor said.

"You've sat in the chair you're in long enough to be allowed to take it home with you," a fellow councilman offered Chitwood as a consolation suggestion.

"Run for Sanitary District," City Clerk L. D. Rose advised Chitwood, "and go with the chair."

Absentee ballots for the April 10 municipal election may be obtained at Carmel City Hall from Monday until April 3. All applications must be presented in writing at city hall.

Carmel chief of police, Clyde Klaumann, announced this morning that he is giving serious thought to the possibility of running for the position of Sheriff of Monterey County in the June primary election.

Yesterday Sheriff Victor Tibbs announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election because of ill health. His resignation triggered Chief Klaumann's thinking.

Carmel police report little damage from Monday night's storm although several trees were felled by gusts of wind and utility wires were downed in some areas of the town.

However, in all the hurly-burly of the southwester, robbers broke the top half of a glass door on the (Continued on Page Sixteen)

LIQUOR LICENSE HEARING

A hearing on a protest filed by the City of Carmel against Cypress West Hotel over a liquor license transfer from outside Monterey County has been set for Monday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock in the city hall.

The Church of the Wayfarer, which had also planned to protest the license transfer, filed a day too late for participation in the matter, according to the office of the city clerk, where such protests are filed.

NEW DATE FOR LITTLE LEAGUE "SIGN-UP NIGHT"

In order not to conflict with a special Cub Scout program on the night of March 21, the Little League directors have re-scheduled the big "sign-up night" for Monday, March 19. Directors and members of the Women's Auxiliary will be on hand at the Carmel High School music building from 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock in the evening to sign on all prospective Little League candidates and their parents. Parents must accompany the youngsters to see that they are duly registered, and to supply important information relative to birth date, vacation plans, and volunteer help to keep the Little League as Carmel's top recreation project. Veteran players who are already members of Little League must attend the sign-up as well as newcomers to the program.

NEW TEAMS IN LITTLE LEAGUE THIS SEASON

President Mark Johnston and his busy staff of vice-president Dr. Charles Pearson, secretary Orville Jones, Jr., and treasurer Bill Woolsey are gleefully anticipating the entry of three new teams into the Little League program this season. Jack Miller's San Carlos Agency will not field a team in the league this year, but the veteran manager will still be active in the program as an advisory coach for all the major and farm league teams. Miller, rated as one of the top baseball men in the area, has had a wealth of experience in the national pastime, and it should be beneficial to all the sprouts to have Jack scatter his know-how throughout the league. P. A. and Lew McCreery's Insurance Agency will sponsor a team in place of San Carlos, and this brings veteran baseball boosters into the Little League picture. P. A. is a friend of baseball of long standing, and Lew has grown up with Carmel's Little League program, managing a team, umpiring, and serving on the board of directors. More boys will have an opportunity to participate in the farm league program with the advent of the Surf & Sand and the Rocky Point Lodge entries in the league.

ST. FRANCIS WINS CARMEL HOOP TOURNAMENT

A superior coaching job and a tremendous will to win on the part of his aggressive charges brought Coach Andy Locatelli's St. Francis High Lancers an upset victory in the 15th Annual Carmel Invitational Tournament. Played last week end at the Carmel High pavilion before overflow crowds, the annual hoop festival lacked the bright stars of previous years, but provided some interesting competition during the three-night stand. St. Francis was deep down in the standings of the parochial league in the Bay Area and was figured to be easy pickings for the likes of Carmel and Junipero, but somebody forgot to tell Coach Locatelli and his scrappy cagers that they were supposed to finish in the consolation bracket.

The Lancers wrapped up the tournament by clipping Marty Baskin's Pacific Grove Breakers, 51 to 33, in Thursday night's second game; edged a hard-trying San Lorenzo Valley quintet, 41 to 37, in the semi-finals; and picked up the majority of the prizes by upsetting a favored Ceres crew, 39 to 34, in Saturday night's final game. The win over Ceres was the result of a fine team effort by the Mountain View lads who came to Carmel to play for the title. Guided by a cool playmaking guard, Richard Cortese, the Lancers made the rangy Ceres quintet play their type of ball, and put on a sticky defense which Ceres was unable to handle.

Coach Dick Lawitzke's Carmel High gang drew a tough opponent in the opener and was pushed into the consolation bracket when Ceres finished in front, 57 to 42. The Carmel lads made a fight of it all the way, but the superior height of the valley quintet was too much for the Padres. In Friday night's action, the Padres beat Gustine, 55 to 45, to reach the consolation finals, and clipped Gonzales, 65 to 51, to win the consolation trophy. Ted Leidig, Rich Shively, and Jim Kelley played impressive ball for the Padres, with Leidig earning one of the All-Tournament spots.

Junipero Memorial High of Monterey continued its mastery over the San Lorenzo Valley Cougars by beating Coach Regis Hurley's crew 54 to 51, in the playoff for third place. A fine performance by Paul Giamona sparked the Cardinals to the win over the Cougars. The lanky rebound ace tanked 17 points on the way to victory, and was an outstanding playmaker and rebounder for the Cardinals.

The two big boys in the Ceres High hoop picture, Jerry Evans and Tom Cauwels, were named to the All-Tournament team along with Carmel's Ted Leidig, Junipero's Rich Wecher, and St. Francis's Richard Cortese. Evans also took home the Most Valuable Player trophy for his outstanding play during the three nights of the tournament. Carmel's Most Valuable Player was adjudged to be diminutive Ted Leidig who scored big and closed out his hoop career at Carmel High in a blaze of glory.

THREE LIGHTWEIGHTS, ONE VARSITY ON ALL-CCAL SQUAD

Carmel High's classy lightweight squad, co-champions of the CCAL B-division along with Live Oak, dominated the all-league selections when three Little Padres earned positions on the mythical All-

Little League

To The Citizens of Carmel:

As president of the Carmel Little League and in behalf of a hard-working, hard-hitting team, in the form of your board of directors, we welcome you to a new season of baseball. We, the Carmel Little League board of directors, feel we have committed the community to one of the most exciting years of its existence. Monday night the board put its stamp of approval on entirely new uniforms for all the teams, and authorized the chairman of the grounds committee to purchase a much-needed piece of field maintenance equipment. The community owes a real vote of confidence to the board of directors. The eagerness and good will with which they have entered into the spirit of this community project has been heart warming. Recognizing the need to spread the work load, they have increased the number of their members from 14 to 25, and brought forth a flower among the thorns — a wonderful Women's Auxiliary. The girls, bless them, have both our heartfelt gratitude for the way they have stepped in to help, and our sympathy for the many problems they will have to solve. Each member of the board of directors is either a chairman or co-chairman of a committee. The cooperation and coordination these committees have shown as they merge in responsibilities is just the kind of team spirit that they will impart to the boys when it comes time to play the game.

Speaking of teamwork, I'd like to introduce my team: Dr. Chuck Pearson, vice president; Orville Jones, Jr., secretary; Bill Woolsey, treasurer; Art Carpenter, managers' representative; Bob Connell, chairman of the grounds committee; Fred Culver, chairman of publicity; Lloyd Cunningham, chairman of education and chief umpire; Larry Horan, legal advisor; Jane Hudson, chairman of the Women's Auxiliary; Lew McCreery, insurance advisor and advisory member of Pony League board of directors; Joe McEldowney, chairman of buildings and repair; Lee McGuckin, farm team managers representative; George Mosolf, co-chairman of equipment and publicity; Harry "Diz" Newman, player agent; Walt Pilot, equipment manager; Dick Rohr, managers' representative; Richard Wright, chairman of concessions ("Mother Wright's Kitchen") and advisory member to the Pony League.

Additional members and joint members of the Pony League board of directors, are Howard Baxter, Robert Hutchinson, and Van King, Jr. We are still in need of a chief scorekeeper to help fill out our roster. Would one of you volunteer to take this job? It's not hard. Call Lloyd Cunningham at MAY-fair 4-2043.

Now that you have met the directors of your Carmel Little League, I hope you will make a special effort to get to know them better throughout the coming season. We need to make our position clear. We want to give Little League back to the community. We want you to ask questions. We want to make a family affair of Little League and bring out the spirit of fun out-of-doors. Bundle up the little ones, eat early, or better yet, use "Mother Wright's Kitchen." We hope to make a little extra money so that we can make next year an even more wonderful experience. (Don't forget any donation you may make is tax exempt.)

This is America in action, wholesome family activity with the spirit of community participation, sportsmanship, teamwork, and another important step toward manhood for our boys. One final request: Many of you will be called and asked if you will participate as an umpire, scorekeeper, coach, announcer, or kitchen helper. If you are called, give it a try. You will be glad you did! It is another opportunity to show youngsters the real need for adult participation in community affairs. Show by doing! Share a little of yourself and your family with your community.

Respectfully,
Markham Johnston,
President.

Bothwell, Klene, Sharp Exhibits, International Dinner And Annual Collectors Show AFA Events

An active and varied schedule of events for March is planned by the Monterey Peninsula chapter of American Federation of Arts. Currently showing at AFA headquarters on Lincoln and Ocean in Carmel are two exhibits: paintings by Dorr Bothwell and icons, textiles and folk costumes from Europe and Asia. These are open to the public free of charge as are all AFA shows.

Miss Bothwell's paintings, representative of her work from 1958 to 1961, are done with a contemporary approach using nature as a point of departure. She has traveled and lived in Samoa, and recently returned from a painting tour of England. Her serigraphs are in the print collection of the Victoria and Albert Museum in London and the U.S. Library of Congress. A well known teacher of design at the San Francisco Institute of Art, Rudolph Schafer School of Design, and Cranbrook Academy of Art, Miss Bothwell will conduct an AFA workshop in design from March 19 to 22.

In the center gallery at headquarters, icons, textiles, and folk costumes, loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard W. Klene of Carmel Valley, will be shown until March 16. Maxine Albro is exhibit chairman.

The first in a series of International Dinners will be held on March 21 at the Presidio Officers Club in co-operation with the Indonesian department of the Army Language School. The dinner will feature both the food and the art of Indonesia. Miss Barbara Burdick will act as co-ordinator.

On March 2 the work of young San Francisco photographer Gerry Sharp will begin a three-week showing. Miss Sharp is a student of Ansel Adams, who will be here to direct the hanging of the exhibit in addition to giving a photography lecture on Sunday, March 25 at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon in the headquarters gallery.

The final AFA-sponsored event during March will be the annual Monterey Peninsula Collectors Show which opens with a champagne preview for AFA members only the evening of March 26 at the Carmel Art Association Galleries. The show features outstanding works of art owned by residents of the Peninsula, and will include oils and watercolors by many great artists among whom are 17th century painter Adrian Brouwer, French Impressionists Claude Monet and Edouard Manet, masters of watercolor Raoul and Jean Dufy, contemporary painters Mark Tobey, Alexander Calder, Henry Koerner, and Pablo Picasso.

Further information regarding these events may be obtained by phoning executive secretary, Miss Sophie Harpe at MA 4-2918 between 11:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., daily.

OCAL team. Sophomore Richard Wise and senior Al Arndt were awarded spots on the first team with Jose Fernandez garnering a place on the second unit. The all-league selections were made by the coaches and sportswriters of the Coast Counties Athletic League, with the first-team selectees receiving handsome plaques from the newspapers throughout the area.

Carmel's two first-team award winners, Wise and Arndt, are both fine all-around performers with excellent shots and sound fundamentals. Wise was the leading scorer for the Little Padres this season, while Arndt excelled in rebounding and floor play. Arndt earned a shot at the varsity in the last game of the season and gave a good account of himself against the big boys. Jose Fernandez was the swiftest of the Carmel lights, and was rated the top passer in the limited division. Jack DeWitt and Enborg Halle, the other starters on the championship quintet, drew honorable mention from the selectors, and both were picked to be fine varsity performers next season.

No Carmel varsity performer cracked the first five in the All-OCAL selections, but Teddy Leidig garnered a spot on the second team. The stubby senior was a colorful and effective performer for the Padres all season, and his patented last-quarter come-through performances pulled the Carmel gang out of several threatening defeats. A real whippet in the Padre fast-break attack, Leidig was the ninth highest scorer in the league and was a topflight defensive player. Two other Padre players, Pete Morse and Jim Kelley, received honorable mention by the pickers but couldn't crack the top ten.

Just about as expected, and as it should be, Gilroy High's undefeated quintet dominated the mythical squad. Bob Stuckey, the B-division's most valuable player, Joe Fillipelli, the league's top scorer, and Don Winchester were named to represent the Mustangs on the all-league aggregation. San Lorenzo Valley High place repeater

Steve Rodriguez and Bruce Kent; Pacific Grove had ace rebounder Bill O'Neill; Live Oak's representative was Ken Schendeger; Gonzales placed the clever passing Gil Desantiago; and King City's Dan Andrus represented the Blue and White Mustangs.

Gilroy High will represent the OCAL B-division in the Stanford Tournament, and Coach Bob Hagen's well-disciplined quintet should make a good showing against the likes of Palo Alto, Sunnyvale, Menlo-Atherton. In a late season game the Gilroy lads whipped Monterey High, and the Treaders are going to the Tournament of Champions at Berkeley.

Bach Festival Plans For Quarter-Century Anniversary In July

Sandor Salgo, music director and conductor, promises exceptional programs for the quarter-century anniversary of the Carmel Bach Festival, July 20-29.

The Festival Chorus is rehearsing this year's major choral works, Bach's Passion Story According to St. Matthew in its entirety, The Magnificat, and Handel's oratorio Jephtha. Among this season's highlights will be a repeat of the highly successful evening performance at the Carmel Mission Basilica.

Bach Festival board and committee members are also involved in the myriad duties necessary to the smooth functioning of the season. Committees for housing, hospitality, transportation, ushering, wardrobe, and publicity have been formed and are busy with preparations for the 1962 festival.

An advance notice, including dates and prices, has been sent to previous ticket holders announcing that reservations for season tickets will be accepted now. Other persons interested in this information may obtain it by writing Carmel Bach Festival Inc., Box 503, Carmel, or by telephoning MA 4-1521.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

Three Monterey County Symphony Orchestra concerts took place Saturday, one each in Pacific Grove, Monterey and Salinas. They were attended by many enthusiastic youngsters of all ages. I was present at the one in Monterey, and comparing it with previous annual youth concerts, I was impressed with the progress in interest, attention and response to Conductor John Gosling's spirited talk which included a display of various instruments by individual players.

In dealing with the compositions, he kept the listening interest of the children without talking down to them. The sight of possibly 500 children present provided an inspiring realization of what the next generation can develop for good music throughout America.

Ernest Schelling, when conductor of the New York Philharmonic, was the original organizer of symphony orchestra concerts for children, and first planted the seed that today is sprouting from all the best symphony organizations, and giving valuable education for the future status of the nation's music.

Being a father, Gosling has the natural facility of approach to young people in a warm, sympathetic, understanding manner, and with the sponsors of these concerts, is contributing valuable work toward community culture in addition to his regular series of symphony concerts.

The question from him as to who was the present national hero brought many upraised hands, and a small boy shouted, "Glenn!" This was followed by the orchestra playing Gould's American Salute, which uses the tune When Johnny Comes Marching Home. No recognition of the astronaut could have been more spontaneous anywhere!

The young Salinas pianist, David Baird, winner of the Symphony Association's Young Artist Competition, played the first movement of Schumann's Concerto in A minor on a small upright piano instead of the grand he ought to have had, and did it admirably. One more (Continued on Page Four)

Need Novelist Today Like Sinclair Lewis Mark Schorer Observes

to make us see ourselves the way we saw ourselves in Babbitt, and Main Street and Elmer Gantry.

"We need a good novelist today who could accomplish what Lewis did," Schorer said on his Carmel visit.

Biographer Schorer, a medium-tall, spare man himself who wears heavy glasses with dark rims like Lewis wore in his later years (but there the resemblance halts abruptly), said this week that though he knew several members of the Lewis family and met still others collecting material, he had met Sinclair Lewis only once, and then on the occasion of a somewhat dour exchange.

"Lewis wrote an enthusiastic review for Esquire magazine in the early 40's, of my first novel, written when I was an instructor at Harvard," Mr. Schorer recalled. "So Bennett Cerf, who was my publisher, sent him my second novel, to which Lewis was not so receptive.

"Then shortly afterward I was at Sardi's restaurant in New York City when Lewis came in. He said only one thing to me. 'You should never have left that small town.' I gave some noncommittal answer. He passed on by me, and at the time I was rather glad to see him go, never dreaming, of course, that I would eventually write his biography."

"That small town," referred to by the author of Dodsworth and Cass Timberlane, was Sauk City, Wisconsin, birthplace of Mark Schorer in 1908. The similarity in names of the Schorer birthplace and the Lewis birthplace, Sauk Centre, not far away across the state line in Minnesota, seems as if it should lead to some highly significant, perhaps even mystical, speculation.

But Mark Schorer insists the only connection lies in the fact that the biographer's familiarity with small-town life helped give him self-confidence when he was deciding whether or not to take on such a mammoth task as the Lewis story turned out to be.

"In addition to visiting every place Lewis lived in England, Germany, France and Italy," Schorer said, "I also made it a point to go to every town in which Lewis lived in this country."

One of the most often mentioned of these towns is Carmel, where Sinclair Lewis made long stays around 1909-1910, and came again in the Twenties and the Thirties.

(On April 14, 1933, Herbert Cerwin met Lewis on the street in Carmel, and wrote an interview with him for The Pine Cone, in which Cerwin quoted Lewis as saying of Carmel, "For God's sake don't let the Babbitts ruin the town...")

Mr. Schorer said that the part of his information on Carmel and Lewis's stays here obtained from present and former local residents came mostly from interviews with Gene Baker McComas of Monterey and Katherine Cooke Ryan, now of the Bay area.

The shack occupied by Lewis and William Rose Benet during a six-month sojourn here in 1909 was on Monte Verde Street. At this time Lewis was here as secretary to writer Alice McGowan Cooke.

Schorer and his family have been frequent Carmel visitors since 1945, when Schorer began teaching at Cal. Prior to this he was a Briggs-Copeland faculty instructor from 1940-1945, an instructor in English at Harvard University from 1937-1940, and an instructor in English at Dartmouth College in 1936.

He earned an AB at the University of Wisconsin in 1929, a master's at Harvard in 1930, and returned to Wisconsin for his doctorate in 1936. He was a Guggenheim Memorial Fellow in 1941, and again in 1948. A Fulbright award in 1952-53 enabled him to do research on the Lewis book in southern Italy, where Lewis died in 1951. ("I worked on the last part of the book first," Schorer explained.) He was a member of the Seminar in American Studies at the University of Tokyo in 1956, and is also a member of the Modern Languages Association and the Authors League of America.

He has, he says, not many hobbies which are not somehow auxiliary to his writing and teaching. "Like Lewis," he says, "I'm no athlete."

Mrs. Schorer, who also visited Carmel this week, helped on the recent biography. Their son, Page, has been attending Reed College in Oregon. "And he's been from time to time a brakeman on the Southern Pacific," his father commented. "Sometimes I think he can't decide whether to be a brakeman or attend Suzanne."

Daughter Suzanne (Suki) is a dancer with the New York City Ballet Company. "She is a soloist," her father explains. "This is different from being a ballerina, but I'm not sure how." The dancer's picture appears in the current issue of Vogue magazine.

In addition to his recent book, Mr. Schorer is author of a number of articles, short stories and books which include The Wars of Love, The State of Mind, The Hermit Place, A House Too Old, and William Blake: The Politics of Vision.

His special field has been, up until the decade he spent with Lewis's diaries and acquaintances, 18th Century British literature. In a lecture he gave at Hartnell College, Salinas, Tuesday evening, he spoke on the work of three American authors, Sherwood Anderson, F. Scott Fitzgerald, and Ernest Hemingway.

And who are, in Schorer's opinion, the giants in the literary earth today in America? "I don't believe it's Faulkner any more," he said. "Hemingway is dead. I suppose that leaves Saul Bellow, my judgment based on his last novel. I also think highly of Truman Capote and Carson McCullers, though not her last book. Herbert Gold is a good writer."

"It happens that in just the past few weeks I've read three novels I particularly liked: Katherine Anne Porter's Ship of Fools (Atlantic-Little-Brown), Dorothy Baker's Cassandra at the Wedding (Houghton-Mifflin), and One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, by Ken Kesey (Viking)."

Mr. Schorer agreed that there has seemed to be a kindled, or rekindled, interest in biography in the past few years. He looks forward eagerly to the Crane book.

The publishing house which signed Mr. Schorer to write the story of author Stephen Crane owns Crane's letters and papers. Whatever other material exists, Mr. Schorer will have to discover on his own, since Crane wrote in the 19th century and his acquaintances are no longer living in the numbers that Lewis's are.

The change from the service-club culture of Zenith, U.S.A., to the battlefields of the Civil War may be a great one, but one to which Mr. Schorer is surely capable of adjusting, and one which will be most interesting to see in book form.

Myrtle Truscott

A Carmel resident, Mrs. Myrtle Hodge Truscott, died Friday in Cheam, Surrey, England, according to word received here by Mrs. Truscott's nephew, Dr. A. Carol McKenney of Pebble Beach.

Mrs. Truscott, whose Carmel home was at Monte Verde and Fourth Avenue, had been visiting in England during the past year with her son, Whitney Truscott, who resides in Cheam.

Other survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Trubee Campbell of Los Angeles; four grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.

A Carmelite for the past decade, and a member of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Mrs. Truscott moved here from San Francisco. She was a native Californian. Funeral services were held in Surrey.

Nancy Baxter Wins Carmel Lions Club Speech Competition

Nancy Baxter, a senior at Carmel High School, was named winner of the annual Carmel Lions Club speech competition Tuesday night following final competition before club members.

Runners-up are Peggy Desmarais, a Carmel High junior, and Nancy Bibb, a senior.

Miss Baxter, final local winner over a field that started out with 14 speakers, will compete next Tuesday evening at the Monterey Public Library with winners of other Lions Club contests in the Peninsula area.

Music On The Peninsula

children's concert will be given, in King City.

Monterey Peninsula Concert Association's fifth and last concert of the season Saturday brought tenor John McCollum in recital before another packed membership audience at Pacific Grove Junior High School. McCollum's vibrant tenor used with artistic musicianship has made him an outstanding American vocalist with a standard second to none. It would be hard to find his equal.

Another sterling musician, George Malloy, at the piano, supported the singer as few know how. McCollum's rare evolution from an established California newspaperman, plus other careers, is perhaps unique in the concert world. His past successes with the Boston, National and other symphony orchestras is but a prelude to international conquest.

His program, while following a generally accepted order of classics and moderns, introduced some little known songs that captivated the audience by his dramatic and humorous audacity. These included the Donkey by Henry Cowell, former Carmel resident. But it was in the serious pieces of Handel, Mozart, and four Schubert Lieder, especially in Du Bist Wie Ruh sung in English, followed by Puccini's aria from Tosca, that nuance, diction and dramatic interpretations displayed John McCollum's exquisite control. This was also in evidence in songs by Berlioz, Duparc, Ravel, MacDowell, Gruen, Chanler, and Grieg's Ich Liebe Dich, a third encore, in English. This program was the highlight of all recitals this season on the Peninsula, with Malloy a consummate accompanist.

At the Monterey Peninsula Country Club, Monday, Mrs. Clyde Dyke presided in her vital way at a dinner for those who had contributed assistance to the Peninsula Concert Association. About 80 persons were present, all of whom were presented to the gathering. Mrs. Lauritzen, whose concert service bureau supplies the artists, spoke at length concerning artists and organizations available for the coming season while the diners checked their preferences on a long list. At the speakers' table, besides Mrs. Dyke and Mrs. Lauritzen, were the other officers of the association, who all spoke. Membership in the association precludes any sale of tickets, but permits attendance at concerts in other towns. Those desiring membership in the association should apply early to Mrs. Laurence Larson, membership chairman.

Edwin Bolles

Edwin Courtland Bolles, 65, died Saturday, in a local hospital. He had been ill only a short time.

A native of Philadelphia, where he was born April 9, 1896, Mr. Bolles was a professor emeritus of English at the University of Pennsylvania.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catherine Jannet Bolles, with whom he had come recently to Carmel to make his home on Guadalupe Street, between Third and Fourth avenues.

Prior to Professor Bolles's retirement, the couple had made their home in Villanova, Pennsylvania. His teaching career spanned 41 years.

Funeral services were held on Monday in the Paul Mortuary Funeral Chapel, Pacific Grove. Inurnment will take place at a later date in the Bolles family plot in East Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Alvin Kuhn

Alvin R. Kuhn, a resident of Carmel for the past year, died early yesterday at his home on Forest Road at Seventh Avenue. He was 68, and had been ill for a short time.

A native of San Francisco, where he was born May 20, 1893, Mr. Kuhn had come here in February, 1961, from Fresno. Prior to his retirement, he was manager for the Zellerbach Paper Company in Fresno.

He was a member of Las Palmas Lodge No. 366, F and AM, Fresno; of Tehran Temple, Fresno Consistory of Scottish Rite Masons, and of the Fresno Elks Club.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Edna M. Kuhn of Carmel; a daughter, Miss Janis Kuhn of Sausalito; a son, Alvin R. Kuhn, Jr., of Fullerton, and three grandchildren, Steven, Gary and Leslie Kuhn, also of Fullerton.

Private funeral services, with arrangements made through the Paul Mortuary, were held this afternoon in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove.

Donations in memory of Mr. Kuhn may be made to Valley Children's Hospital, Fresno, or Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, 19th Avenue and Moraga Street, San Francisco.

ANNUAL MEETING FOR FOUNDATION WEDNESDAY

Wednesday's regular meeting at Carmel Foundation Town House will be replaced by the annual meeting, which will be held at the Parish House of All Saints' Episcopal Church at 2:30 o'clock, and will be followed by tea at Town House, where there will be on exhibit the work of the studio painting, enamel-on-copper, creative stitchery, and weaving groups. Members and their friends are invited to the annual meeting.

GEORGE WALKER NAMED COOLIDGE CHAIRMAN

George R. Walker of Carmel was named chairman of the Monterey Peninsula Coolidge-for-Congress committee by Assemblyman Glenn E. Coolidge in Sacramento this week.

Coolidge is currently unopposed for the Republican nomination in the new 12th congressional district. William K. Stewart of Pacific Grove and Dr. Robert Bowersox of Monterey are seeking the Democratic nomination. Coolidge is from Santa Cruz and is just completing his fifth term in the California Legislature.

Walker, a past president of the Monterey County Bar Association, has resided in Carmel since 1952 and in 1960 was elected Young Man of the Year by the Monterey Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He is a director of the County Legal Aid Society, Inc., of the newly formed Monterey Peninsula Council on Alcoholism, and member of the Peninsula Garbage and Refuse Disposal district board for Carmel.

Carmel Youth Finds Creating Jewelry Fascinating Craft

Creative crafts are synonymous with Carmel. John Eagleton, the 17-year-old son of Milton Eagleton, owner of Joyce's Jewelry Shop on Ocean Avenue since 1947, has joined the ranks of local creative craftsmen.

Always talented, John's aptitude developed when a crucible was purchased for the purpose of creating custom—not costume—jewelry for his father's business. At first it looked like a simple but interesting gadget to the curious John, but after being tempted to tinker with it, he decided to investigate the whole procedure of crucible use.

He found that carving the initial pattern in lost wax was the first important step and undoubtedly the crux of the situation. Then he worked each personal project into a mold, ultimately employed the crucible, which in effect is a converter. He lastly extracted the results of his creations in solid silver.

This procedure took a few months of trial and error to uncover and apply, but with a moderate degree of success, the fires of fascination were sparked for John. Now that he has sold many of his experimental pieces, among them crosses and rings, he feels that this is only the beginning and that the creative aspects of this unusual craft are unlimited.

Red Cross Chapter Announces Names Of March Blood Donors

An increase of 33 percent in the amount of blood received at its quarterly blood-giving event on March 1 is reported by the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross. Ninety-four volunteers contributed 84 pints of blood.

"This is the first step in a stepped-up program of blood giving in Carmel," said Edgar Bissantz, chairman of the chapter's blood program committee. "Our goal is a regular quarterly receipt of 150 pints, to meet our annual quota of 555 pints."

Volunteers who reported for the event were: James Kelsey, Robert E. Smith, Richard H. Johnson, Marjorie Fontana, Vincent Torras, Romayne Hill, Evelyn Zoellin, Lois J. LeBlanc, Lloyd Miller, Robert G. Chapman, Delbert Wermuth, Elizabeth White, Erik Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Viking, George Over, Michael Williams, Roy Love, William van der Sluis, Mrs. Kenneth H. Ford, Elizabeth Vaughn, Howard E. ## World Prayer Day Observances At All Saints' Friday

United Churchwomen of the Monterey Peninsula will observe the World Day of Prayer tomorrow at All Saints' Episcopal Church beginning at 11:00 o'clock in the morning. The day's meditation and devotions are to be directed by the Reverend David Hill and the Reverend Peter Farmer, Episcopal clergymen. All women interested in church activities are invited to attend. From noon-1:30 o'clock, the lunch period will afford time for informal exchanges of ideas and experiences in their organizations. Members should bring sandwiches, and the women of All Saints' will serve tea and coffee.

The spring project of U.C.W. is to join in the relief drive of Church World Service for clothing and blankets for destitute people in the Orient and Algeria.

These people have suffered from war for several years. Blankets especially are wanted—300,000, in a nation-wide appeal—by April 16, when the C.W.S. truck from Modesto will call for those collected locally. All relief supplies should be left at the First Methodist Church in Pacific Grove.

May Fellowship Day will be held by the churchwomen on May 4 at Fort Ord chapel. The beautiful chapel aroused much admiration among the women last year. The program will be arranged by the chaplain.

Karen Steinke Sings With County Symphony At Sunset March 20

Soloist with the Monterey County Symphony at its forthcoming concerts in Salinas and Carmel will be Karen Steinke, winner of the Symphony Association's regional music competition. Miss Steinke will be heard with the orchestra in a performance at Sunset Auditorium March 20, at 8:30 o'clock.

A mezzo-soprano of extraordinary talent and ability, she has had a wide and varied training. She is a graduate of the University of Arizona, where she received her degree in music, and is a linguist as well as a musician. At present she is teaching at Carmel High School.

Miss Steinke has appeared as soloist with the University of Arizona Symphonic Choir and Orchestra under the direction of Howard Hanson, at the Pasadena Playhouse in Gilbert and Sullivan's The Gondoliers, and just last summer at the Wharf Theater in Monterey.

Sanitary District Awards Contract For Plant Additions

Carmel Sanitary District board members, Monday night, awarded a contract for additions to the district's sewage treatment plant to Granite Construction Company of Monterey, which submitted the lowest of three bids, $32,500.

Work on the plant, situated beside Carmel River between Highway One and the lagoon, will begin within 30 days, weather permitting, according to Chris A. Neddersen, sanitary district secretary.

Other bids for the project were received from the following construction firms: C. Norman Peterson, $33,400; Daniels and House, $36,800.

Shelburn Robison, attorney for the sanitary district, was instructed by the board to prepare the contract with Granite Construction Company. Members of the board were all present. They are James B. Pruitt, Allen Knight, Willis Shepard, Harold C. Arnott, and John D. Gates.

where she was acclaimed for her performance as Lady Thiang in The King and I.

She is currently studying with Dr. Harvey Marshall, has been a resident of this area for the past five years, and has twice won the regional Metropolitan Opera auditions held annually in San Francisco. This year she also competed as a finalist in the Metropolitan district auditions, which were held in Los Angeles.

Miss Steinke will sing excerpts from three operas, Alceste, Il Trovatore, and The Consul, with the County Symphony.

Tickets for the March 20 concert are available at the Browse Around Music Shop. Because of increasing demand for seats, season ticket holders who will be unable to attend the performance are asked to turn in their tickets in advance, so that the Symphony may benefit from a double sale.

Coffin Files First For Superintendent Of County Schools

Ed Coffin, a consultant in the county schools office for the past three years, yesterday was the first candidate to take out nomination papers for the post of Monterey County Superintendent of Schools in the June primary elections.

Coffin, who holds a master's degree from the University of Southern California, was on the faculty at Monterey Union High School from 1951 until he was invited to join the County Office in 1959. He was rated a "master teacher" at MUHS, where he taught remedial reading, special education, American literature, English and journalism, and was director of publications.

A former Pacific Grove city councilman, Coffin has been active in civic affairs throughout his career in education. He has been president of the board of directors of the Monterey Peninsula Municipal Water District since it was formed by the electorate in 1958.

Coffin is married and has two sons, ages 17 and 13, and two daughters, ages 9 and 7. He served with the U.S. Army Air Force during World War II.

An officer this year in the Monterey County Elementary School Administrators Association, Coffin belongs to a number of professional organizations, including the Secondary School Administrators Association, the California Teachers Association, and the National Education Association. He is president-elect of the Golden Gate Chapter of the National School Public Relations Association, and is president of the Coast Counties Athletic League Sports Writers Association.

Before entering the field of education, Coffin was a newspaper reporter, also a radio broadcaster and executive for several years.

Physicians From England, 8 Counties, Here For Institute

Physicians are attending a post-graduate institute on liver diseases and high blood pressure today and tomorrow at Del Monte Lodge. The meetings are sponsored by the California Medical Society and the medical societies of Monterey, San Benito, San Luis Obispo, San Mateo, Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, and Ventura counties.

Dr. Sheila Sherlock and Dr. D. Geraint James, both from England, are discussing various aspects of liver diseases. Faculty members from the University of Southern California school of medicine also are participating in the two-day program.

President of the Monterey County Medical Society, Dr. Alfred F. Kandlbinder, and Dr. Osman H. Hull, secretary, are representing the host society. Dr. Joseph E. Turner is general chairman.

Other local members of the regional postgraduate committee are Dr. Richard J. Creedon, Dr. James R. Fassett, Dr. James D. Niebel, Dr. David Thorngate, and Dr. Edwin W. Tucker.

Tomorrow evening at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium, the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society and the Carmel Unified School District will present the last in their current Audubon Wildlife lecture series—Heart of the Wild—featuring Cleveland P. Grant, above.

In the wild and natural places of North America our native birds and animals live today as they have for centuries. Now our increasing population and expanding economy threaten these remaining areas. To save our wildlife, we must have wild areas. In the past four years, Cleveland and Ruth Grant have spent many months in some of our choicest wilderness areas, including the waterfowl marshes of Manitoba and the remote ranges of the Rockies.

In the past 25 years, Cleveland P. Grant has produced more than 25 motion picture films on the native wild birds and animals of North America. During this period he has delivered over 5,000 wildlife lectures to audiences totaling over two million people. After graduation from Oberlin College, he joined the staff of the Chicago Natural History Museum for a period of six years.

Grant now devotes full time to the absorbing vocation of producing and showing natural color motion pictures.

Judges Announced For County Symphony Composers' Contest

American composer, Roy Harris; Erno Daniel, conductor of the Santa Barbara Symphony; and music critic Alexander Fried of the San Francisco Examiner will comprise the panel of judges for the Monterey County Symphony's forthcoming Composers' Award Contest.

The competition, which is currently in progress, is open to all state residents who are 35 years of age or under, and citizens of the United States. The Monterey County Symphony, through this contest, hopes to find a contemporary piece of outstanding merit, which is playable by a community orchestra. First and second place cash prizes of $400.00 and $100.00 respectively will be awarded, and the winning composition will be performed by the Monterey County Symphony on its 1962-63 concert series.

Material must be in the hands of the judges by May 1, and their decision will be final. Complete details of the competition may be obtained by writing the Composition Selection Committee, Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, P. O. Box 3851, Carmel, Calif.

Circle Theatre New Play Opens Friday, Mason Wright Star

The Pleasure of His Company, which opens tomorrow at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre, stars Carmel's own Mason Wright in one of his rare local appearances. Wright's professional acting career has taken him several times across the country in recent seasons, but he has found time this spring to return to the Circle where he played many notable roles during the past decade. Those who remember him as the haunted murderer of Payment Deferred or the stern detective of Angel Street, will discover him in a very much lighter vein as the dashing playboy Pogo Poole, hero and heel, who dominates the action of the new comedy.

Samuel Taylor, author of Sabrina Fair, and Cornelia Otis Skinner are co-authors of the script. Florence Dormody, last seen here several seasons back in Treasure Hunt and Fresh Fields, undertakes the stylish role of a San Francisco socialite, non-plussed by the arrival of her first husband at her daughter's wedding. Al Wiseman makes his first Circle appearance as her present husband, a slightly square attorney from an old California family.

As the daughter whose marriage is at issue between the parents, pretty Judy Grady makes her local debut. ALS student Tell Schreiber plays her cattle-breeding fiancé, pitted against the ultra-sophisticated Poole in a match for the bride's attentions. Clifford Anderson adds spice to the proceedings with a robust characterization of her grandfather, a sharp-tongued philosopher with a distaste for domesticity.

Translation of some of the play's lines from Cantonese to Thai has been part of the rehearsal chores of MPC student Suthep Iemsakul. Cast as the Oriental houseboy in a Pacific Heights mansion, Suthep found it easier to speak in his native language than in the Chinese called for in the script. The other actors required to converse with him have found Thai less difficult than Cantonese, and equally incomprehensible.

Under the direction of Frederick Rider, the high-style comedy will have a run of seven weekends.

Orchid Show Opens Tomorrow With Champagne Preview

An orchid show will be held this week end at the Monterey County Fairgrounds Exhibition Hall, under joint sponsorship of the Carmel Orchid Society and the Monterey Bay Orchid Society.

Opening with a champagne preview tomorrow at 8:00 o'clock in the evening, the event will continue Saturday from 10:00 o'clock in the morning to 11:00 o'clock that evening, and Sunday from 10:00 o'clock in the morning to 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Chairman for this year's show is Ross Barnes of Pebble Beach. Ribbons and silver trophies will go to winners, Mr. Barnes says, in competition which, judging by the number of entries already registered, will surpass last year's show.

Schedules and additional information can be obtained from Mr. Barnes. Tickets for the preview are available at the Pine Inn.

MPVS Garden Tour Areas Announced At March Meeting

Carmel Meadows, Carmel and Pebble Beach will be the areas included in the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services House and Garden Tour on May 2, it was announced at the meeting of the organization held last Friday at the U.S.O. Tickets for distribution among members will be available at the April meeting, and allocation of tickets will be made through Mrs. Wendell M. Coates and Mrs. August Nieto, ticket chairmen, Box 2004, Carmel.

Daffodils, contrasted with a green linen background, was the arrangement presented by Mrs. Arthur Dresser and Mrs. Harold Pullen in cooperation with Mrs. Edward Downard, hostess, for the coffee before the meeting.

Mrs. Carl Hering, conducted the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Archer Allen, president. Minutes of the February meeting were read by Mrs. Robert G. Rettig. Mrs. Rose L. Johnson and Mrs. Lydia J. Reece were introduced as newly qualified members by Mrs. Lawrence Kinsler, membership chairman. Mrs. Dudley Miles is a prospective member. Miss Irene Palmer, treasurer, presented the financial report. Mrs. Ethel Gilliland, chairman for the Thrift Shop, spoke of new merchandise at the shop, collected by members of the Children's Home Society, who are working in conjunction with MPVS during the month of March. Proceeds from the Thrift Shop will be allocated to the Children's Home Society at the end of the month, in an effort to make their office at 499 Van Buren Street, Monterey, self-sustaining.

Mrs. S. Y. Cutler reported on the progress of the spring garden tour, and Mrs. J. A. Weeks, publicity chairman, spoke of the generous response for publicity regarding the activities of MPVS as well as its spring project. Mrs. S. Y. Cutler referred to her position as coordinator for services, introducing Mrs. Charlotte Wight for the Committee on Alcoholism, and Mrs. Margaret Stebbins, representing the Mental Health group. Activities of the New Monterey Neighborhood Center were also discussed.

Mrs. Carl Hering, vice president, was joined by Mrs. John Cox in a gift presentation to Mrs. M. J. Alaire, secretary at the U.S.O., as a small token of appreciation by members of MPVS for her valuable assistance in technical work so essential to the success of an organization.

Big Sur Ceremony Saturday To Honor Conservationist

On Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock, Senator Fred Farr will present an illuminated Commendatory Resolution from the California Legislature to William E. Colby of Big Sur at a public meeting at the Coast Gallery in appreciation of Mr. Colby's many years of public service in the cause of conservation. Following the presentation, C. Edward Graves of Carmel, conservationist and nature photographer, will present his tape-recorded slide program, Beauty in Wilderness, in which music, poetry and Bible quotations are used to express his personal philosophy of the meaning and value of wilderness in our civilization.

Mr. Colby is a retired lawyer, who served 44 years as secretary of the Sierra Club and one term as president. He was a friend of John Muir, California's famous writer-naturalist, and worked closely with him in the early days of the Sierra Club. Mr. Colby also served nine years as the first chairman of the

Dr. Max Rafferty, superintendent of schools in La Canada, above, yesterday announced his candidacy for the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

In a statement he said, "I believe this state and this nation are dependent for their very survival upon education. Education theories of the 1930's are outmoded. These theories, too often and too long put into practice, minimized homework, opposed report cards, and downgraded subject matter."

"There must be a change in the trend of California education."

State Park Commission.

At the same time, the prints from the Philip Hyde exhibit of photographs of the Carmel-San Simeon coastline will be shown. These prints were made last spring as a joint project of the Sierra Club and the Point Lobos League and have been shown in several places on the Monterey Peninsula this winter. They will remain on exhibit at the Coast Gallery for some time.

Employer payments other than those itemized herein, as defined in Section 1773.1 of the Labor Code, are to be paid in accordance with the terms of the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the type or classification of the workmen or mechanics employed on the project.

Overtime, Sundays and Holidays—not less than one and one-half (1½) times the basic hourly rate plus applicable employer payments. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workman employed on the project.

Copies of all collective bargaining agreements relating to the work as set forth in the aforementioned Labor Code are on file and available for inspection in the office of the Department of Industrial Relations, Division of Labor Statistics and Research.

Attention is directed to Section 7-1.01G of the Standard Specifications providing for employment of apprentices on the work. Every such apprentice shall be paid the standard wage paid to apprentices under the regulations of the trade at which he is employed. Information relative to employment of apprentices shall be obtained from the Director of the Department of Industrial Relations, who is the Administrative Officer of the California Apprenticeship Council.

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 1770 of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Department of Public Works has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and employer payments and similar purposes in the done to be as follows:

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON
The spiritual relationship of God and man will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Highlighting the Lesson-Sermon on the subject of "Man" is the Golden Text from Psalm 100: "Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture."

One of the citations to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 265): "Mortals must gravitate Godward, their affections and aims grow spiritual,—they must near the broader interpretations of being, and gain some proper sense of the infinite,—in order that sin and mortality may be put off."

New Yorker Writer Here

Kevin Wallace, who grew up here, went to Sunset School and Monterey High School before there was a Carmel High School, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Grant Wallace. He is now a member of the New Yorker magazine editorial staff.

After attending the University of California at Berkeley, Kevin worked on newspapers in San Francisco until he moved east five years ago to write for the New Yorker. In a recent issue, Kevin interviewed Sargent Shriver on the ways and means of managing naps on long plane trips with crowded itineraries. He also writes Talk of the Town items.

Kevin has a daughter, Deirdre, who is 15, a 12-year-old son, Brian, and lives in New York City and South Salem.

After so many years away, and comparing it to the village he once knew, Kevin finds Carmel still relatively unspoiled. "It's a beautiful place," he declares.

Busy Days For Carlsons

Back late Saturday night after a two-weeks trip to Arizona, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome E. Carlson arrived home in a car loaded with desert rocks and branches of saguaro cactus. Driving by way of Las Vegas, Hoover Dam, and Scottsdale, the Carlsons spent most of their time visiting friends in Tucson, taking in concerts and ballets at the University of Arizona, and Rodeo Week — "my first rodeo," comments Mrs. Carlson.

A highlight of the rodeo parade, "which lasted three hours and contained not a single motorized vehicle," was the appearance of a coach which had once belonged to the Emperor Maximilian.

The Carlsons also visited Frank Lloyd Wright's desert home, Taliesin West, near Scottsdale, and on their return trip stopped in Los Angeles to visit Mrs. Bertha Carlson, Mr. Carlson's mother.

After catching their breath for three days, they drove to San Francisco Tuesday night after the Mardi Gras ball for a reunion with Mrs. Carlson's son, Richard Salinger, who arrived there on Wednesday for the conference of the National Association of Science Teachers. Mr. Salinger, who is superintendent of science at Wilton High School, Wilton, Connecticut, is chief press officer of the conference and will also deliver a paper on Methods of Science Teaching.

Mrs. Carlson reports that her son, Herbert, on a year's leave of absence from his administrative duties as principal of Napa High School to take over the post of Secretary of Labor Goldberg, in Washington, D.C., is settled with his wife and children in a house in Virginia, not far from the capitol.

Mrs. Carlson's third son, Pierre Salinger, is President Kennedy's press secretary.

Honors for Young Merrifields

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Merrifield are justifiably proud of the recent achievements of their son, Charles, and their daughter, Ellen.

Charles, now Ensign Charles W. Merrifield, was graduated last month from Naval Officer Candidate School at Newport, Rhode Island, in the top 25 per cent of his class. Ellen, a freshman at Monterey Peninsula College, was on the Dean's Honor List for her first semester's work and has recently been elected secretary of her class.

Ellen graduated last June from Carmel High School. Charles, a 1961 graduate of Stanford University, where he was affiliated with Phi Delta Theta fraternity, will be stationed for the next five months at the United States Naval Supply Corps School in Athens, Georgia.

Nursery School Theatre Party

Parents of the Carmel Parent Nursery School and their guests took over the Studio Theatre Friday evening to attend a performance of Send Me No Flowers, and simultaneously to boost the school treasury.

A number of dinner parties preceded the theatre party. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lee and Mr. and Mrs. John Graham were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Criley and Mr. and Mrs. William Satchell, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hill asked Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Plaxton, and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Kearns to dine with them before the play.

Chairman of arrangements for the theatre party was Mrs. Robert L. Watson. Mrs. Hill was in charge of refreshments.

Lt. Prince at "Jump School"

Second Lieutenant Paul T. Prince, the son of Mrs. Dorothy Prince, last month completed the officer orientation course at the Signal Training Center, Fort Gordon, Georgia, and is now with the Airborne Division at Fort Benning.

A 1957 graduate of Carmel High School, Paul graduated in 1961 from Stanford University where he was a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity.

Pete Steffens UC Professor

Peter Steffens, son of Ella Winter Steffens (now Mrs. Donald Ogden Stewart) and the late Lincoln Steffens, lived here with his parents during the 1930's and attended Sunset School. The Pine Cone has received word that Pete is now a professor of journalism at the University of California at Berkeley, having had a varied career that took him from Monterey High School to Groton, from Harvard University, where he graduated cum laude, to Oxford University where he was the first American student to edit the Isis, Oxford's literary magazine. Widely traveled in many parts of the world, including Czechoslovakia and Israel, Pete was at one time west coast representative of Time and Life magazines.

Pete's wife, Ella, works extensively with retarded children and has spoken on this subject on the Berkeley radio station, KPFA-FM.

Fremont Ballou Sees Dr. Spoehr

After spending three weeks in Hawaii, Fremont Ballou flew back by jet to California on February 20. "One hour behind astronaut Glenn, but he passed us en route and got to his destination an hour before we reached ours!" he observes.

Mr. Ballou toured most of the islands, went out with a mountain climbing group and the local Audubon Society branch, reports that there was a drought while he was there (it rained only once in three weeks), and that there was snow and skiing on Mauna Kea.

Two former Carmelites whom Mr. Ballou met in the islands were Miss Alexandra Hague, who operated a nursery school here for several years and is now teaching in Honolulu; and Dr. Alexander Spoehr, who grew up in Carmel, and has recently become director of the East-West Center in Honolulu.

Dr. Spoehr, an anthropologist, was formerly director of the Bishop Museum in Honolulu. He is married and has two children.

Greg Nielsen on Pacific Tour

Greg H. Nielsen, sonarman seaman, United States Navy, is really "seeing the world" in accordance with Navy tradition. Serving aboard the escort destroyer USS Renshaw in Hawaii, Greg has embarked upon a six-month tour of duty with the Seventh Fleet which will take him to ports in Japan, the Philippine Islands, Hong Kong and Okinawa.

Greg, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Nielsen, visited him in Hawaii last fall, is a native Carmelite. He attended Sunset and Carmel High School, spent his junior high school year in Rome, and joined the Navy on his return to this country. His two older sisters are Nancy (Mrs. Mervin Sutton) of Carmel, and Connie, who works in San Francisco. Penny, his younger sister, is a student at Monterey Peninsula College.

Reunion of Puerto Vallartans

Travellers, past and future, to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Robert Smith on Sunday evening to reminisce and look at slides taken by different members of the group in recent years.

Among those who shared happy memories and planned future visits were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Vial, Mr. and Mrs. Jon Konigshofer, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Raggett, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Marie Gragg (who says that instead of planning to go around the world next year she will settle for Puerto Vallarta), Lisa Tescher, and Stuyvesant Fish. "Everyone decided to go next year," declares Mrs. Smith.

The Smith's son, Robin, dealt with the intricacies of the slide projector, assisted by his sisters, Debbie and Penny, and by the Vials' daughter, Susie.

New Carmel Babies

February was a month for sons. Five new babies, all boys, born at the Peninsula Community Hospital, joined Carmel families recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rodriguez became the parents of Philip Richard on February 9.

February 20 is the birthday of David Hamlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spear.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Feder have named their little boy Conrad Timothy. He was born February 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Washburn welcomed Scott Edward on February 25.

David Michael, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Young, was born February 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Clark of the United States Naval Facility, Big Sur, became the parents of a daughter, Sherry Lee, at the Peninsula Community Hospital on February 21.

Knudsen's Silver Anniversary

Greetings and congratulations in both Danish and English were heard Tuesday afternoon as friends began gathering at 4:00 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aage Knudsen for the couple's silver wedding anniversary open house party.

The guest who came farthest to be present at the celebration was Mr. Knudsen's mother, Mrs. Edvig Hansen of Copenhagen, Denmark, who arrived in Carmel on Saturday. From Vancouver, British Columbia, where the Knudsen's lived for some years before moving to California, came Mrs. Else Robson, and from San Francisco came Mrs. Knudsen's sister, Mrs. Mariana Nilsson. Mr. Knudsen's cousin, Mrs. Valborg Ravars and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Saypolht came from San Bruno; Tom Jacobsen from Fresno. Added to these persons were the many friends the Knudsen's have made since settling in Carmel seven years ago.

Beautiful flower arrangements, many of them gifts, decorated the house. A tiered silver wedding cake circled by petit fours stood on one candlelit table; a turkey and ham were surrounded by Danish smorgasbord delicacies on a second; both were placed in the long sun room of the Knudsen's home at Dolores and Alta overlooking the Del Monte Forest. Dancing to accordion music added to the gaiety of the party later in the evening.

The Knudsen's were married in Copenhagen and among those who were at their wedding 25 years ago, and celebrated with them here Tuesday, were Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. Nilsson, Mrs. Robson, and Mr. Jacobson.

Tuesday morning another important event in the life of Aage and Helena Knudsen will take place. In San Francisco they will take the oath of allegiance for the first time as American citizens. "We are very proud and very happy about this," Aage and Helena, the owners of Dolores Bakery, both declare.

Queen Caroline Reigns At Ball

Tuesday evening Captain Ralph Arndt, king of the Alliance Francaise de la Peninsula de Monterey Mardi Gras dinner and ball at the Casa Munras, circulated among many beautiful ladies to select a queen. He was clad in a pale blue bespangled court costume and a white wig with peruke. Sparkling eyes peered at him from behind a variety of masks. At last he stopped—in front of Mrs. James Tyson, crowned her and handed her a be-pearled sceptre to match his own sparkling symbol of rule. Together they withdrew to the King's table while the rest of the company sang to Lucille Ray's accordion accompaniment.

Queen Caroline's costume was a pale blue chiffon and lace robe de chambre and a ruffled lace boudoir cap.

Next masked Mardi Gras celebrants paraded past the royal couple and the judges. From among the Folies Bergeres beauties, Pierrettes, Javanese, Japanese, Mexicans, French peasants, lords and ladies, space man, hooded hermit, persons in "flapper" era dress and varieties of costumes hard to identify as to country or period, the judges selected the following winners: most French, Mrs. Josephine Miller; most interesting, Mrs. M. Simpson; most original, Dr. and Mrs. Deryck G. Nuckton and Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Fingen.

Mrs. Miller had on an authentic Bretagne costume; Mrs. Simpson, a flowing French outfit of the Victorian era. The Nucktons and the Fingens were American tourists in Paris, complete with all accoutrements and mannerisms. All were awarded bottles of champagne.

Mrs. Jerome Carlson, Alliance president, presided over the gala wearing the costume of her native Alsace-Lorraine. Dancing followed the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Pratt Masten are seen, above, shortly after their marriage Saturday afternoon. The Reverend David Hill officiated at the 2:00 o'clock ceremony in St. John's Episcopal Chapel. White gladioli and carnations were massed below the stained glass chancel window. Standard vases of the same flowers and lighted candles in branched candelabra framed the altar. Bach organ preludes were played while wedding guests, who were family members and close friends, gathered before the service.

The bride was given in marriage by Jack O. Belvail of Clear Lake, a longtime friend and former neighbor in Carmel. She wore a white brocade wedding gown with a basque bodice above a floor-length bell skirt. Her tiered fingertip veil billowed from a lace-trimmed cap and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered with two deep red roses.

Her attendants were both former classmates at Sunset and Carmel High schools. They were Mrs. Francis Shutz (Suzanne Belvail) of Lakeport, matron of honor, and Mrs. Jesse Corsaut (Katy Fry) of Carmel. They wore similar frocks of emerald green satin, matching shoes and bow headdresses with float veils. Pink roses and carnations were the flowers in their bouquets.

Owen Greenan was best man for the bridegroom. Ushers were Drummond Hoffman, Bill Gorham and Francis Shutz, husband of the matron of honor.

Mrs. Verna Davis, mother of the bride, attended the wedding wearing a gold silk ensemble with a green and gold orchid corsage and small bow-trimmed black hat.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Hildreth T. Hare, was clad in a lavender satin shirtwaist dress. The spray of white roses in her hair matched her shoes.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the Crystal Room at Pine Inn. The tiered wedding cake, surrounded by sprays of fruit blossoms, was placed on a table between crystal candelabra adorned with prisms which reflected the glow of candlelight.

Before the bride left with her husband for a short wedding trip, she changed to a soft green wool suit, a harmonizing hat and accessories.

They are now at home living on Monte Verde Street between Third and Fourth Avenues. The bridegroom has resumed his studies at Monterey Peninsula College and the bride her work at a local drug store.

Out of town persons who attended the marriage, in addition to those in the wedding party, were Mrs. J. O. Belvail of Clear Lake and her mother, Mrs. A. S. McLaughlin of Salinas, also Mrs. Dorothy Mudd of Merced and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Frank of Redwood City.

The bride's father was the late Dwight O. Davis. The father of the bridegroom was the late Richard L. Masten.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone

To Attend Republican Meeting

Mrs. E. J. Murray and Mrs. Thomas Barrows will be among representatives from the Carmel Republican Women's Club at the Northern California Federation of Republican Women, to be held in San Rafael on Tuesday.

State Assemblyman Joseph Shell of Los Angeles, and former Vice President Richard Nixon, the two leading Republican candidates for governor of California, will both speak during the two-day session.

Plaxtons, Browns Think Pink

"We are thinking pink again," Carmel's assistant city clerk, Arthur Plaxton, and Mrs. Plaxton joyfully announced yesterday morning after the birth of their second granddaughter and fourth grandchild.

The baby was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital at 12:30 o'clock in the morning to Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Brown (Betty Plaxton). Her name is Dorie Elizabeth.

Also delighted with Dorie's arrival were her two brothers, Bruce, seven, and Mark, six years old; also her sister, Julie, four, Mrs. Plaxton reports.

Mrs. Bastow Returns to Detroit

Scanning the skies for good flying weather on Monday were Mr. and Mrs. James M. Toy, who were planning to drive Mrs. Nettie Bastow, Mrs. Toy's mother, to the airport to catch her Detroit bound plane.

Mrs. Bastow has been spending two months in Carmel visiting her daughter's family, which includes Liz, a Carmel High School student; Margaret, who attends Sunset School; and two-year-old Jimmy.

Edwin Moreland

Requiem Mass was celebrated Monday morning at Carmel Mission Basilica for Edwin S. Moreland, 61, of Pebble Beach, who died on Friday evening in a local hospital after a brief illness.

A resident of Pebble Beach for the past four years, Mr. Moreland was a retired electrical engineer and a graduate of the University of Michigan. He was born November 2, 1900, in Adrian, Michigan, and had spent many years on the West Coast, coming here from Berkeley to make his home on Viscaino Road.

Mr. Moreland leaves his wife, Mrs. Frances Moreland of Pebble Beach, and a son, James E. Moreland of Berkeley.

Entombment was to follow the funeral rites, in the mausoleum at St. Joseph's Cemetery, San Pablo.

Ernest Calley

Ernest Calley, Carmel ceramicist and craftsman who for 25 years taught manual training and crafts at Sunset School, died yesterday at his home on a hilltop above the Coast Highway, Casa de Tierra. He was 74.

Beloved by several generations of Carmel school children, he earned this devotion not only with his teaching but for his efforts in behalf of Carmel's annual kite festival and his instilling in his young friends a love for the outdoors and an interest in wildlife conservation. He founded the Junior Audubon Club here.

At the time of his retirement from teaching in 1953, he held the longest teaching record of anyone in the Carmel School District. For years he was an active participant in Sunset's annual outdoor session at Big Sur where he taught crafts and shared his vast knowledge of birds, botany and wildlife.

An experienced woodsman, he was also active in the movement to save California's redwoods.

Born in England in 1887, Mr. Calley came to this country as a child, settling with his family in the Bay area. He received his AB degree from San Jose State College and after graduation went into business in Palo Alto. In 1925 he took his first teaching job, instructing woodworking and pottery in a San Francisco elementary school.

In 1928 he came to Carmel and accepted the position as shop instructor at Sunset. About his work he was once quoted as saying, "Every child should have firsthand experience with the materials with which he lives."

He pioneered in his insistence on allowing girls in his shop classes and many a Carmel housewife today owes to him her facility with household tools.

Following a sabbatical in Mexico in 1946-47, he built his home in Palo Colorado Canyon, making use of the tamped-earth process employed by the Mexican Indians.

In 1945 he married Mrs. Phyllis Enoch, British-born Carmelite who was also active in Carmel crafts circles, and who with her husband turned out the distinctive earthenware and stoneware which came from the down-coast kiln in recent years.

In addition to his many crafts pursuits—Ernest Calley taught ceramics in Carmel Adult School even after retiring from teaching—he was also a singer in the Bach Festival chorus for many years.

In addition to his wife, survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Christine Lugler of Oakland; a son, Douglas Calley of Sedona, Arizona; two sisters, Phyllis Marvin of Sebastopol, California, and Mrs. Violet Hyrc of Santa Cruz, and one grandchild.

Mission Mortuary has been in charge of arrangements. There will be no formal funeral services.

Carl Jensen

Private services were held yesterday in Monterey for Carl Valdemar Jensen of Carmel who died Tuesday evening at his home, Guadalupe Street and First Avenue. He had been suffering a long illness.

Born September 23, 1889, in Copenhagen, Denmark, Mr. Jensen was a realtor, formerly with Irish Homes.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Ada Edith Jensen of Carmel. Inurnment in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea followed the services.

Bishop Welch, Now In His 100th Year, Preaches Here Sunday

Bishop Herbert Welch, oldest member of the Council of Bishops of the Methodist Church, will be the guest preacher at the 11:00 o'clock morning service at the Church of the Wayfarer Sunday.

Now in his 100th year, he is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Anthony F. Blanks in Carmel. He will preach on Sunday on the theme: The Majesty of the Christian Faith.

Elected to the episcopacy from the presidency of Ohio Wesleyan University, he served in Japan and Korea, the Pittsburgh area, Shanghai, China, and after retirement in 1936, the Boston area, and was director of the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief.

Dr. K. Fillmore Gray will conduct the service and also the service at 9:30 o'clock at which there will be the celebration of the Holy Communion. The Chapel Singers, directed by John W. Farr, will sing at both services and Connell K. Carruth will be at the organ.

John Keppelman

John Arthur Keppelman, Jr., of Pebble Beach, former Pacific Grove publisher and one-time staff member of Time Incorporated, died of a cerebral hemorrhage Saturday at a local hospital. He was 53.

Mr. Keppelman became ill on Friday at his home on Ronda Road and was taken to the hospital, where he died the next day.

He was owner and publisher of the Pacific Grove Tribune from 1945, when he moved to this area from Pennsylvania, until 1950, when he purchased a home in the West Indies. The family lived there for two years, then returned to Pebble Beach, where Mr. Keppelman has since been local representative for Western Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Keppelman was born February 4, 1909, in Reading, Pennsylvania, and attended Fessenden Hotchkiss School preparatory to his studies at Yale University, where he graduated in 1934. Before serving with the Time organization, he was associated with the Reading Times.

In addition to other activities and organizations, Mr. Keppelman was a member of the Christian Science Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Jeanette Jewett Keppelman; two sons, John A. Keppelman III, and Carlton Jewett Keppelman, all of Pebble Beach, and two brothers, Arthur C. Keppelman of Essex Falls, New York, and Richard S. Keppelman of Litchfield, Connecticut.

Private rites were solemnized Monday in the Paul Mortuary Funeral Chapel, Pacific Grove, with inurnment following in El Carmelo Cemetery.

Norberg Opposes Giving Easement To County Roadway

After Councilman Eben Whittlesey voted to charge the dollar for the 25-year-old resuscitator, Norberg said, "I'm against it because we should get as much out of the school district as possible."

"A dollar and a quarter then," someone else suggested less than seriously, but Whittlesey's motion passed with Norberg voting no.

The council also adopted two ordinances which passed second reading last night, one to eliminate unnecessary procedural details in obtaining permits for the opening of city streets by utility companies, another requiring council permission for closing any sidewalk planter spaces.

An ordinance requested by building inspector Floyd Adams which would permit use of redwood and heavy cedar shake roofing in Carmel's building code passed the first reading of the council.

After long discussion, the council referred to an ad hoc committee for study a suggested amendment to the city code which would permit the council to issue use permits on appeal from the planning commission, or to remand to the planning commission for issuance of such permits.

In additional action the council:

Passed resolutions establishing the salary in Range 20, Step 1, for new administrative clerk Billie L. Postel, reclassifying Roy A. Walls, and advancing to Step 3, Range 25 John S. Eversoll of the Police Department.

Voted to adopt a report from police commissioner Chitwood recommending that installation of stop signs requested at San Carlos and Thirteenth Streets be held in abeyance, and a system of crosswalks and slow signs be tried instead.

Authorized the city clerk to call for bids on an obsolete caterpillar tractor the city wants to sell.

Denied a request for a 20-minute parking space at Fifth Avenue between Junipero and Mission.

Tabled a petition to establish center-of-the-street parking on Junipero between Fourth and Fifth Avenues.

Defeated a motion by Francis Whitaker to remove a request for tree removal on private property which has been two years in the Forestry Commission and place the matter in the hands of the lands and improvements committee. The council decided instead to act on a suggestion of the mayor who asked the matter be left in the hands of the forestry group, which has three pending new appointments to its membership.

Granted a request from the Sanitary District for a five-foot easement for installation of a sewer at the north end of Carmel Beach, provided no trees be lost and the sand replaced.

Passed a resolution followed by permission for the Fire Department to purchase four walkie-talkies and a base station radio at a total maximum cost of $1360, which is well within the amount budgeted.

And acted on additional minor items.

Stanley Greeb has been elected general chairman of the newly-formed Citizens' Committee for the Monterey Peninsula College Bond Election.

The committee, appointed by the MPC board of trustees last month when it set April 10 for a $2,240,000 Peninsula-wide bond election, completed its organization Monday night in a meeting at the MPC student union.

John Zellhoefer, Carmel Highlands, was designated first vice chairman, and Robert Ross, Carmel, second vice chairman. Ross will also act as chairman of the campaign finance committee.

Responsibility for flood control at the mouth of Carmel River will be shared by local, county and state agencies, under a plan adopted this week at a meeting in Carmel city hall of representatives of the County Board of Supervisors, the Carmel Sanitary District and the State Division of Beaches and Parks.

It was the third of a series of meetings on the topic called by State Senator Fred Farr, following the February flooding of the area near Carmel River lagoon.

Under the plan the state would each autumn remove part of a sand bar which forms at the river mouth and prevents some of the river water from draining into the ocean. A bulldozer will be available on short notice under the plan, and financing of flood control measures will be split among state, sanitary district and county agencies. The plan has been submitted for approval to the supervisors, sanitary district and beaches and parks officials.

Carmel Police Chief Clyde Klauermann last night explained to the City Council the merit system under which a Police Reserve could operate to serve the city if the reserve plan is adopted by the council.

The system, under which the reservists would earn token remuneration of some $164 per year by accumulation of points for shifts served (e.g. 200 points for a two-hour shift; 1,000 points equals $20), is in line with a recent federal government request that cities mobilize such units in connection with an improved civil defense and disaster plan.

Councilmen Eben Whittlesey and Francis Whitaker said the plan could fill a need in Carmel, becoming as valuable as the city's volunteer firemen.

The council will give more consideration to Chief Klauermann's plan, and last night voted to spend $396 on additional equipment for the police department which could eventually be assigned to the reserve unit, if organized.

The council also voted to extend for six months its interim civil defense and disaster ordinance which

Dr. Iverson To Give Talk Here Monday On Aspects of Reading

Various aspects of reading, with special emphasis on comprehension, will be discussed by Dr. William J. Iverson, professor of education at Stanford University, Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset would have expired March 31.

Carmel Unified School District trustees, last week, applied for National Defense Education Act matching funds for two projects. They were the guidance, testing, and counseling program and the modern languages program at the new junior high school.

John Graham will be in charge of the first program. Donald Craig will co-ordinate the second.

Dr. Walter Klas, principal of Carmel Junior High School, stated that 300 students, or 50 percent of the students in grades 7-9, expected to enroll at the new school next fall, have signified they will study either Spanish or French.

Total cost of the conversational language program, to include installation of an audio-visual laboratory for individual instruction, will be $9,887. NDEA funds are expected to provide half of this sum.

Ted Fehring of Carmel is chairman of the 1962 Monterey County Grand Jury. He was impanelled last Friday with 18 other grand jury members by Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson. The jurors were selected by lot from 30 names submitted by Jury Commissioner Ernest Maggini.

Mrs. Arthur McEwen of Carmel was chosen secretary. She held this position also with the 1960 grand jury.

Other grand jurors from the Carmel area this year are George Yates, Lew McCreery, and William Branson.

Marcus A. Williams, principal of El Gabilan School, Salinas, has withdrawn his candidacy for the position of county superintendent of schools to support Dr. Dayton Benjamin in the race for this position. The latter is a Monterey City Schools District administrator.

Sixteen Monterey Peninsula residents who worked as spotters during the televising of the recent Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur National Golf Championship have donated their checks to the new Community Hospital in memory of Pebble Beach golf pro Peter Hay.

Their contribution, $480, brings the total amount donated to the hospital for the Peter Hay Memorial Physical Therapy Department to $6,826.

The 16 men who made the latest contribution for the Peter Hay Memorial Fund are Warner C. Keeley, Dr. Joe Turner, F. A. (Buck) Henneken, Robert Young, William Luckenbill, Sr., William Luckenbill, Jr., Francis Sparolini, Harry Turner, Allen Kouchie, Jack Miller, Charles Oler, Court Randolph, Jim Clark, Harry Craviotto, John Ridley, Joe Fratessa and Bob Stanger.

School cafeteria. He will be guest of the Carmel Unified School District.

Dr. Iverson, who gives courses on reading in teacher training at Stanford and directs research in the field, is one of the editors of a new State literature series of text books. He was also co-editor with Clarence W. Hunnicutt of Syracuse University of Research in the 3Rs (Harper, N.Y., 1958), a compendium containing actual excerpts of scientific reports in reading and other fields. An article he wrote with William S. Gray, professor of education at the University of Chicago, What Should be the Profession's Attitude Toward Lay Criticism of Schools? With special Reference to Reading, appeared in the Elementary School Journal, September, 1952.

Dr. Iverson has indicated that he would like to have a question and answer period as part of the program.

His talk will conclude the series that has been sponsored in Carmel by the Professional Study Committee on Reading and the Citizens Committee during the last few months. Other speakers have included Edna Crilley of Bethesda, Maryland, on the phonovisual method of reading; Mae Carden of Glen Rock, New Jersey, on the Carden method; and Mrs. G. B. H. Hall of Carmel Valley, on the Spalding Method, developed by Romalda Spalding of Honolulu.

As with the other lectures, all interested persons are invited to attend the Monday night meeting.

Carmel Trustees Favor Annexing Downcoast Schools

(Continued from Page One) mean Carmel will have to buy a bus to bring pupils to River or Carmel Junior High School, if Palo Colorado annexes to Carmel.

Dr. Richard Snyder was concerned about the effects of future increased enrollments in both the coast schools in regard to annexation to Carmel district which has its own expansion problems. Annexation would add "A whole new set of problems difficult to handle," he declared. He admitted, though, that the three districts have a community of interests and obligations, also there is no sense in "leap-frogging" coast high school students past Carmel to Monterey High School as is done now.

Carmel trustee, Dr. Robert Newton, thought the greatest problem to Carmel in the annexation matter lay in capital outlay unanticipated burdens for school sites and buildings due to possible increase in population in the coast districts.

A fourth possibility for the coast schools was explained by James Thomsen, business manager for county schools. If they vote not to stay with Monterey or join Carmel, then fail to form their own high school district, the district

Planners To Explore City's Role In Any Parking Program

Members of the planning commission, Tuesday afternoon, decided that they need to find out exactly what Carmel's parking problems are before beginning study on a municipal parking program requested by the city council, also whether or not the city should take an active part in any such program.

First step towards classification of the present parking situation in the business area, they decided, will be to obtain separate reports on present parking conditions from the city engineer, building inspector, police chief and street superintendent.

Planning commission secretary, L. D. Rose, was instructed to obtain these reports for commission study.

They approved the request of Robert Stanton for a professional office for himself and Mrs. Stanton on the Stantons' Normandy Inn premises; also granted use permits for the existing clothing store, gift shops and restaurant on the same property. These latter permits were required because Normandy Inn is now situated in the new C-1-L limited commercial zone. All the above uses are allowed with use permits in this zone.

could lapse. The board of supervisors, on the recommendation of Miss Stone might then join the coast schools to Carmel district. This was only a probability, though, he indicated.

Present enrollment in both Palo Colorado and Captain Cooper districts is 88 elementary grade pupils, 13 high school students. Cost of educating these children to the two districts combined is $57,457. This sum includes cafeteria, community services and capital outlay expenditures.

Carmel, Palo Colorado and Captain Cooper combined as one district could be maintained this year at Carmel's $2.35 operating tax rate, Mr. Greenfield's figures showed.
